POINT OF NO RETURN

BY JAMES SWALLOW

London, 2230; on the eve of a tense election that will send shockwaves throughout the Federation, Major Stefan Travis finds his liberty unexpectedly cancelled and a new assignment thrust upon him.

A key political opponent of the government, Carl Varon (Peter Guinness), has been arrested, accused of hate crimes and incitement to violence, but a trail of murder and conspiracy leads Travis to doubt the truth presented to him. When the deadly threat of a terrorist atrocity looms, how far will he go to prevent the deaths of millions of people?

EYE OF THE MACHINE

BY BEN AARONOVITCH

The University of Oxford, 2230, and the campus is a hotbed of student protest as Roj Blake's Freedom Party seeks to sweep away a century of corrupt rule. Kerr Avon (Colin Salmon), a young man from the frontier, brilliant, ambitious and naïve, has arrived to make his mark on the future.

Working with Professor Ensor (Geoffrey Palmer), the Federation's eminent cyberneticist, Avon has no intention of getting involved in politics – he may be naïve but he isn't stupid. But when he meets activist Anna Grant (Keeley Hawes) all bets are off...
